Wendy Moten's journey has been nothing short of stellar. She was recently cast into the international spotlight after turning all four judges' chairs at her blind auditions on "The Voice". She advanced through the season, and despite being injured after taking a literal "fall" onstage, Wendy emerged as one of the two finalists.

Wendy started her professional music career being signed to a major label as an R&B artist in the 90's. After releasing three well-received albums, (including one produced by David Foster), her voice became highly sought after by the who's who in the Pop, Jazz, R&B and Country genres. Her resume includes guest duet recordings with John Oates, Isaac Hayes, Larry Carlton, Peabo Bryson, Michael McDonald, The Barkays, Vince Gill, Julio Iglesias and Kirk Whalum.

Notably she was the lead vocal on Kirk Whalum's cover of the Stevie Wonder classic, "All I Do", which garnered R&B and Contemporary Jazz chart-topping domestic and international success. She toured for many years with Julio Iglesias as his key vocalist, featured on duets with him in his set. The list of collaborations and accolades is vast and impressive, all leading to this next chapter...

With soon to be released new music, to the delight of her hundreds of thousands of social media followers, Wendy is ready to own the stage. There is no doubt that Wendy's show-stopping voice and commanding style will draw audiences to your event, and bring them to their feet.
